Martin Nominated For Senate Post By GOP Will Oppose Hill Nov.

"The people of Alabama are sick and tired of assuming the posture of a hard hat before the National Democratic Party."

These were among the opening words of a hard hat talk at Birmingham today by James D. Martin, a Gadsden businessman, in accepting the Republican nomination for the United States Senate against Democratic incumbent Lister Hill.

Mr. Martin, who received the nomination amid a standing ovation of more than 5,000 people at the convention in the city auditorium, labeled Sen. Hill as a "water boy to the Kennedy and the National Democratic Party."

"The people are worn out with explaining to leaders of the National Democratic Party that there are some things we believe in, and those things are more precious than any price we are tired of explaining that we will not abandon these principles regardless of the threat of federal punishment or the reward of federal hands."

"I do not intend to run as a humble candidate," he continued, "I do not expect to explain or apologize for being a Republican candidate. I came here to win a fight and to win it."

He told the enthusiastic audience that his opponent in this campaign "has been abandoned by the people of this state. He has taken his place in the inner circle of the two Kennedys. He has been privy to all their secret and public plans for Alabama. He has run their errands and done their bidding."

Martin criticized Senator Hill for operating in Alabama "under the name of a Republican Party," and for having "never waged a campaign here. He holds his seat by default."

He called upon Republican supporters to emphasize three factors in the campaign: (1) The conservative principle in Alabama is a positive principle; it is not the principle of reaction and retreat; (2) The American principle is not to beat labor and management into submission with the iron fist of government; (3) The answer to the farm problem and agricultural crisis in production is not the protection of the farmer by the government, but the restoration of some sense of sanity and intelligent planning and the restoration to farmers of Alabama some freedom of decision and hope of permanency and stability.

In accepting the nomination, the Republican Party will be a charge for the plates. Mayor Martin stated they are expecting a crowd of from 5,000 to 6,000 to pay tribute to the farmer's son who takes office as Alabama's governor next January.

A street dance with orchestra will be held tonight on the two main downtown streets, state highways 51 and 30.

The day promises to be the biggest Clayton has ever had and everyone is especially invited to be a part of it.

The Elba Jaycees will sponsor the third annual Southeast Alabama Fishing Rodeo beginning next week.

The rodeo will take place at the Coffee County Pond June 20th and continue for five days, ending Sunday, June 24th.

Many fish will be "tagged" with numbers that will represent valuable prizes. Along with the prizes given away for tagged fish caught four dollars per pound will be paid for the largest bass, twenty dollars for the largest perch, twenty dollars for the heaviest string of bream (not to exceed 20 fish), and ten dollars for the largest catfish. Valuable fishing equipment prizes will be given.

Additional information about the rodeo will be given by the Elba Jaycees, who are the sponsors of the event. The rodeo will be held at the Coffee County Pond, which is located about 10 miles south of Elba.

Dr. Scott reported that glaucoma, which is characterized by hardening of the eyeball, is the greatest cause of preventable blindness in the United States today. The disease is usually found in persons over forty years of age. Inasmuch as early detection of this condition is the key to effective treatment, a yearly complete eye examination is the best protection against glaucoma.

Legislature In Session Governor Asks Fair Bill On Reapportionment

MAY BE LAST CHANCE IN LEGISLATURE TO REAPPORTION SEATS

This may be the Alabama Legislature's "last chance" to reapportion its seats.

Addressing the Special Session which met here this week, Gov. John Patterson urged the lawmakers to enact a fair reapportionment measure without delay of the Federal courts doing it for them.

A three-judge Federal court here has set a July 15th re-apportionment deadline. "Unless we measure up to our responsibilities, reapportionment now to take effect in 1967," is reasonable and I am hopeful that the Legislature will accept it."

Unless the Legislature re-apportions in a fair and reasonable manner by July 15th the Federal court has a threatened to "take some action in time to take effect before the General Election" this fall.

"In my deliberate judgment," Gov. Patterson told the legislators, "this ultimatum is dictatorial, unparliamentary and without a semblance of legal basis under the constitutions of the United States and the State of Alabama." He said he "deplored and resented" the Federal decree.

"I want the members of the Legislature to know that as long as I am governor I am not about to yield to Federal whims and threats of Federal courts."

The governor outlined the Special Session of the Legislature to meet five days a week, pass a reapportionment bill giving everyone a fair voice "no matter where he may live" and then adjourn without delay.

and put our legislative representation in fair and proper focus, we probably will get a Federal decree that will not be to our liking or satisfaction," Gov. Patterson told the Special Session.

The governor recommended a reapportionment measure to take effect with the 1967 Legislature.

"I do not know of course, if this action on our part will prevent the Federal court from attempting to immediately reapportion the Legislature just elected," the governor said. "However, I think this approach reaps the benefits of reapportionment now to take effect in 1967," is reasonable

Native of Elba Named Principal of Florida School

Robert Stephens of the Damascus community, presented the Elba Clipper office with a box of home-grown tomatoes this week. Stephens has an advertisement in the classified section of vegetables he is offering for sale, by the pound or by the hamper for home freezing.

The tomatoes from Mr. Stephens farm are appreciated. They are the most delicious that the Clipper editors have enjoyed this season. The tomatoes are of the Homestead 24 variety, the grower stating that the tomatoes are improving over his first picking and that he has a large number ready for the market every day now, as well as most all vegetables.

Stephens is one of the first to sign up for the planting of a large acreage in the purple hull peas at the school, a position testament to an assistant to the principal.

He is married and the Murphrees have two sons.

Wait for a cloudy day to get out tomato plants.

Each person in the U. S. over 15 years old smoked 3,989 cigarettes last year; at least that was the average per capita use of cigarettes in 1961.
